

Figure 4.6 The steps used to translate a source program to the binary object code representation used by a processor.