

Figure 12.4 Illustration of two processors sharing an underlying memory. Because each processor has a separate cache, conflicts can occur if both processors reference the same memory address.